Dear Ms. McCune:

It's rare for me to write, much less to write about someone in another field. I'm writing to tell you about my architect and builder, Paramount Construction, and to tell you about some of the fine things Paramount has done for me.

Our home was completed on July 1, 2000, only five months after ground breaking.

Probably, the two most important characteristics we were looking for in selecting a builder were honesty and integrity. Paramount Construction exuded these characteristics in every facet of their organization. We researched several architects and design/build companies; even talked with realtors and subcontractors, and it became very obvious that the quality of workmanship and the Paramount reputation was heads above the competition.

Our first meeting was the Robert Maggin, and he showed the quiet confidence of a man who knows his company is the best. We felt comfortable and at ease after that meeting, because we knew the Paramount staff were professionals, who were customer oriented, and focused on doing the best job possible. Rich Foster, Paramounts' architect, spent hours with us during the design phase and patiently helped us with the many changes we made. Bob Anderson, our construction supervisor, communicated with us daily and was constantly there to assure a quality job. Lew Cohen, the Accountant, sent bi-weekly computerized cost control sheets, keeping us up to date on Allowance expenses and budget control. Chuck West, their project coordinator, was available to us from the beginning of construction and spent hours with my wife picking out materials, looking at samples, and planning ahead for our needs.

These people made our home construction a wonderful experience; one that was completed a month ahead of schedule and under budget, but with quality workmanship and professionalism. Not a day goes by that we don't hear a positive comment on the design and construction of our home. We are very proud to say, "Paramount Construction built our home", because we know they are the best!

Thank you for the opportunity to tell you about Paramount Construction. Please do not hesitate to call me if you need any further information.

Sincerely,

Dave Rosen
